Executive Development Programme in Advanced Strategic HR and Analytics for HR Leaders

As an experienced HR professional, you've accomplished many significant milestones. From talent acquisition to employee engagement, from performance management to organizational development. What's next?

The HR landscape is changing. Organizations face unprecedented challenges and opportunities in managing human capital, integrating disruptive technologies and adapting to a hybrid and distributed workforce. To navigate this evolving landscape, they need HR leaders who can think strategically and leverage data effectively.

Today, HR leaders are required to work closely with senior leadership and identify how they can influence business outcomes. They should take their cues from the corporate business strategy and identify key questions their stakeholders would like them to have answered. How can HR deliver data insights to make effective business decisions?

XLEAD's Executive Development Programme in Advanced Strategic HR and Analytics for HR Leaders addresses these challenges head-on. This eight-month live online programme is designed for experienced and ambitious HR professionals who aspire to become influential leaders and drive real results in their organisations with a strategic and data-driven mindset.

Alumni Testimonials

The strategic HR modules were well-structured, insightful and deeply aligned with real-world leadership challenges. The overall experience has been intellectually enriching and professionally relevant. I began exploring new opportunities while pursuing the programme. I went through a multi-round selection process for a Director-level position at a global firm and secured the role. What stood out to the panel was my ongoing pursuit of the Advanced Strategic and Analytics Programme from XLRI. The credibility of the institution and the relevance of the programme were seen as strong indicators of my continued leadership development. Without a doubt, it contributed meaningfully to the positive outcome.
